PHILIPPINE CRITICISM 'DAMNED LIES': SHUSTER

NOTED MEN BRUSQUELY ACCUSED OF FALSEHOOD

Former President Taft, Dean Worcester, and Congressmen Receives Terse Denouncement

GOVERNOR GENERAL HARRISON IS LAUDED

Democratic Policy Has Approval of Man Who Won Fame as Persian Treasurer

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—"I am going to tell the American people that the criticism and the charges made against Governor Harrison by Taft, Worcester, Miller and Austin are a pack of damned lies."

This is the statement delivered in Manila by W. Morgan Shuster, former official in the Philippine government, and reaffirmed by him here today. In an interview at the Hotel St. Francis with a representative of The TRIBUNE, Shuster expressed some regret for the forceful language in which the statement is couched, but he said it was the vigorous criticism of the administration of Governor-General Francis Burton Harrison, that had led him thus to express himself.

Shuster left for Washington this afternoon. He arrived here last Monday after a two-and-a-half-day visit in Manila, the headquarters of the Philippine government. Shuster was collector of customs at Manila from 1901 to 1906, member of the Philippine commission and secretary of public instruction from 1906 to 1909.

The men whom he mentions by their last names as being the authors of "a pack of damned lies" are former President William H. Taft, Dean C. Worcester, scientist, scholar, author and secretary of the interior of the Philippine government from 1901 until 1912; Congressman Clarence B. Miller of Minnesota and Richard W. Austin of Tennessee, who last summer made an extended tour of investigation of the Philippine islands.

"The reason that I take these gentlemen to task," declared Shuster, "is because of the statements they have made that Harrison was doing Tammany politics in the islands; that he was displacing deserving Americans and elevating incompetent Filipinos; that there were resultant charges in the islands; that the state of efficiency of the government departments had been broken down, and that the sanitary system had deteriorated."

And that none of these conditions has ever existed and do not exist today. I have felt my skin crawl at times on reading in respectable and influential newspapers and monthly publications the thinly disguised brayings of certain pseudo-scientific investigators who have either reached the Philippines by their own volition or been sent there by ill-considered institutions who have spent their money foolishly."

USUAL MALCONTENT. "I do not mean that every one approves everything that the government has done or is doing, for I cannot imagine a campaign being fought without safe strategists and boulevard brigadiers sitting at home and criticizing, nor a big constructive political work being done without bringing into action the 'tale-of-two boys' and 'what-they-did-to-me' man and his corps."

Shuster was unwilling to participate as between the so-called "lies" of Taft, Worcester, Miller and Austin.

FOSS CHARGES DR. WILLS NEGLECTS INFIRMARY WORK

Charges that the County Infirmary is being "ruled by booze fighters," that Dr. C. A. Wills, the superintendent, "is never on the job," and that he engages in private practice to the detriment of the inmates, who are bullied by their superiors, were made before the Board of Supervisors today by Supervisor Fred Foss. The charges were flatly denied by Dr. Wills, and the board backed him up.

Wills admits practicing privately, with the consent of the board, but states that his private practice never interfered with his regular work, being only an occasional surgical operation. "It is my right to do this," he declares. "People in Hayward, when they need me, call on me. I have to prepare for the future, and intend to take such cases. If it means my resignation you can have it."

Supervisors Mullins and Meyer, as well as Chairman D. J. Murphy, testified that they had always found the doctor "on the job," and urged that he be backed up by the board.

Foss and Wills have been at odds since the last county election, when Wills supported M. J. Kelly, nominee for treasurer, who was running against Foss for the office. Foss at the time accused Dr. Wills of doing politics for his rival.

"Mr. Foss is not competent to criticize the hospital," said Wills. "He has not been there since the Kelly election. The board is familiar with that incident. I have nothing more to say about it."

The dispute arose over the expulsion of a patient from the infirmary.

HYNES WOULD PUT WEARY HUSBANDS IN STEEL CAGES

"A man who is not willing to provide for his family should not be permitted to sit in the county jail and play cards, smoke his pipe and get two square meals a day while his wife and little ones are either starving or depending upon the charity of others."

This is the opinion of District Attorney W. H. L. Hynes who returned this week from Los Angeles where he went to investigate the operation of the county chain gang for lazy husbands with a view of inaugurating a similar institution in Alameda county. He will make a full report with recommendations to the supervisors.

Summing up the information obtained, District Attorney Hynes said:

"I visited Los Angeles for the purpose of investigating the operation of the county chain gang for lazy husbands with a view of inaugurating a similar institution in Alameda county. He will make a full report with recommendations to the supervisors."

MILLIONS IN SHIP ORDERS REACH CITY

Eleven New Vessels Are Ordered in Port of Oakland

Latest Work Adds to Recent Orders Over $7,000,000

Eleven new vessels, seven of steel and four wooden, costing $7,325,000, and of an aggregate tonnage of approximately $2,000 tons, will be under construction simultaneously within a few months in Oakland shipyards.

Four steamers, two of 10,000 tons and two of 6000 tons and aggregating in cost more than $3,500,000, will be built at the new works of the Union Iron Company on the Oakland estuary. The first of these vessels of 6000 tons, and recently ordered by a Swedish shipping firm, will be completed by December of this year. Her keel will be laid in about a month on one of the four new slipways rapidly approaching completion. She will be 350 feet long, 50 feet beam, will be fitted with reciprocating steam engines and will conform to all the requirements of a first-class steamship. Her cost will be $700,000.

Before her construction is well on.

Unconventional Yes, But Punctual

Woman Shoots Gun to Stop Jitney Bus

SAN JOSE, April 13.—Mrs. I. C. Merriman's reputation for being punctual in keeping appointments was intact today, although she had to use a revolver to keep it so.

Having an appointment here, Mrs. Merriman, who is a state humane officer, missed the inter-urban train at Palo Alto and gave chase to it in a Jitney bus. She overtook the car where it left the state highway for a run across country and started shooting with a pistol to attract the motorist's attention. He heard, halted his train and Mrs. Merriman triumphantly boarded it.

Some time ago Mrs. Merriman, fearing she would miss a court appointment in San Jose, stepped in front of the Del Monte flyer at Palo Alto when the Southern Pacific refused to sell her a ticket, boarded the train and refused to be ejected. She was in court on time.

German Consul in Plea of "Not Guilty"

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—German Consul General Franz Rupp, Vice Consul E. H. Von Schack, Lieutenant George Wilhelm von Reichenau, Captain C. Conley and Mrs. Margaret Cornell pleaded not guilty this morning before Federal Judge Deering to charges of setting on foot a military expedition against Canada. Yesterday the defendants moved to dismiss the case on the ground of "non in jeopardy" and had asked for a bill of particulars. The government is going to demand to the "once in jeopardy" claim and the court has taken the request for the bill of particulars under advisement.

Allies Guarantee Holland's Integrity

THE HAGUE, April 13.—The French Minister to Holland has given Holland assurance that neither France nor her allies have contemplated directly or indirectly, attacking the neutrality of Holland or the inviolability of its territory. The assurance comes in the form of a communication issued by the Minister of Foreign Affairs today.

The assurance adds that the recent conference in Paris did not occupy itself with Holland at all.

Kaiser III, Worries Over Verdun Failure

GENEVA, April 13.—It was reported today that the Kaiser had returned to Potsdam on account of illness caused by worry over the failure of the Verdun offensive and the great sacrifice of lives there.

A despatch yesterday said the Kaiser narrowly escaped a shell which burst near him, and that he was returning to Landsberg to recover from the nervous shock.

Standard Oil to Face New Anti-Trust Suit

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Department of Justice is planning a new dissolution suit against the Standard Oil Company, it was reported today. Therefore it will not investigate the advance in gasoline prices at this time.

FIRST LIVES ARE LOST BY EXPEDITION

Troops Are Fired on as They Pass Through Parral

Many on Either Side Dead According to Brief Report

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In a battle in Parral between American troops and the civilian population last night, General Carranza telegraphed his Embassy here today:

"Many deaths occurred on both sides. Carranza troops aided the Americans in attempting to restore order. General Carranza has applied to the United States to recognize the dangers of arousing the natives."

The advices say that when the American troops entered, the local commander recalled the American assurances that they would not pass through towns. The firing started by excited civilians followed. The situation quieted, but later another clash between American troops and civilians occurred in which there were more deaths among the Mexicans.

A dispatch from General Carranza himself says:

"After messages sent by Secretary for Foreign Affairs Aguilar, the secretary of war received a message from General Gutierrez dated at Chihuahua informing him that it had been impossible for military commanders to check the mob against American troops who entered Parral, and that this evening—April 12—the fight had continued between our people and the American forces and that many deaths had occurred on both sides."

"General Obregon has already given orders to prevent continuance of the battle, but the excitement is so great among the people that I fail to know whether the struggle can be stopped."

"Call on the Secretary of State and advise him that the occurrence is due to the unwise action of the American commander in having entered Parral without the permission of the authorities, violating the orders of that government forbidding the occupation of towns by American forces."

U. S. Requested to Withdraw Its Expedition

WASHINGTON, April 13.—General Carranza's proposal for the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico failed to bring from administration sources today any indication that the troops would be withdrawn immediately or that the situation was expected to result in any serious friction with the de facto government in Mexico.

The note which arrived at the Carranza embassy early in the day was prepared for delivery to Secretary Lansing by Eliseo Arredondo, General Carranza's ambassador.

The development, not unexpected, was received in Congress with divergent views, but a general undertone of caution and a disposition to leave the situation in its present stage to the administration prevailed.

Late today Secretary Lansing said the Carranza note gave evidence that there was some misunderstanding in Mexico. Some of its statements as

JUGGLING OF COUNTY CONTRACT MAY CAUSE GRAND JURY INQUIRY

Forced Action Saves Taxpayers Large Sum; Original Bid for Election Supplies Is Reduced More Than One-Half by Agent of San Francisco Company

FIRST TENDER ONCE ACCEPTED

Remarkable Procedure Culminates in Mandatory Action by Supervisors Under Penalty Otherwise of Being Held Liable on Charge of Malfeasance in Office; Dist. Attorney Orders Board to Accept

UNDER the guise of an economy, the Board of Supervisors this morning granted to J. B. Lanktree, as agents for Carlisle & Company of San Francisco, the contract for election supplies at a price of $1.73 a precinct. Estimating 1000 precincts throughout the county the gross price is $1730. J. B. Lanktree's original bid, accepted by the board and ordered filled by County Purchasing Agent John Sabin was $4.30 a precinct, a gross figure of $4300.

Just how the taxpayers have been saved the sum of $2570 in the instance of one item of county supplies will probably be the subject of a rigid grand jury investigation.

DIVER QUESTION ASPECT GETTING MORE SERIOUS

German Answer in Sussex Case Does Not Satisfy Washington.

NEW YORK, April 13.—A rumor that German Ambassador von Bernstorff would be lauded his passports within a fortnight caused a drop in the stock market today. Though the story was unconfirmed and, without basis except the word of Washington brokers, it gained general credence. Leading stocks dropped from 1 to 3 points.

The fact that Germany admits attacking a vessel near where the channel steamer Sussex was damaged by an explosion strengthens the administration's position. It is held, even though the Kaiser said the ship was warlike, torpedoed was apparently not the Sussex. The Berlin claim that Germany never promised to recall freight steamers the same as liners is a large factor in the discussion. Secretary Lansing believes that Germany could not legally decline to include freighters in its assurances with regard to conduct of the undersea campaign.

"The government will act now in a manner entirely satisfactory to the people," declared an intimate friend of President Wilson today.

Proof of many solemn pledge violations since the Lusitania was sunk is expected to be included in the administration's answer to Germany. The Teuton disclaimer of responsibility proposed further negotiations.

In the past the administration's position has been not to consider arbitration of questions in which American lives were concerned. Officials said that Germany's suggestion of arbitration had been answered by President Wilson's previous reply was characterized today as "information for Germany"—information concerning what the administration has tending to prove that Germany violated its assurances and what may be expected if the danger of recurring violations is not removed. It was expected the American reply would be ready next week.

In view of the pressing nature of the situation with Germany and Mexico, President Wilson today abandoned his plans to go to New York tomorrow night and cancelled his engagement to speak before the Young Men's Democratic Club there Saturday.

The affidavits from Paris and London expected today on the liner St. Paul will be considered in connection with the German note and the "information" regarding attacks on merchant vessels since the Lusitania disaster is expected to be completed in time to go to Berlin within the next week.

With the district attorney declaring that the Board of Supervisors must accept the amended Lanktree bid or face charges of malfeasance in office, an embarrassing and reluctant vote was taken only after Lanktree, asked why he did not insist on being paid his original contract price for the work, declined for private reasons to answer.

CHANGES PREDICTED. Data, originally brought to light by E. Williams, special investigator for the Tax Association, is already in preparation for review by the grand jury and just what the outcome may be is problematical, but it is predicted that a radical change in the present method of purchasing county supplies may be introduced.

According to Chairman John Mullins, who explained his position before the board this morning, Lanktree offered some weeks ago to supply the precincts for $4.30 each. After some slight inquiry, Purchasing Agent Sabin was directed to place before the board a requisition for the supplies at that price, the understanding being that Lanktree was to have the contract. This was accomplished at the meeting of the board April 8, and Lanktree, armed with the order of the purchasing agent, directed Carlisle to deliver the work at $4.30 a precinct. At the following meeting of the board Investigator Williams called attention to the procedure and asked why Alameda County printers were not given an opportunity to bid on the work. At once the program was altered, and without consulting Lanktree as to his attitude or legal position, bids were called for at a time, it now transpires, when Carlisle was printing the order.

BIDS RECEIVED. This morning four bids were presented to the board. Lanktree presented a bid of $1.73 per precinct. The other bidders, all Oakland firms, were The TRIBUNE, $3.26 per precinct, a bid of $10.00 for the original Lanktree bid; Hall-White Company, $3.90 per precinct, and Kelly-Davis Company, $3.90 per precinct.

When called upon for an explanation Lanktree merely stated that the material was ready for delivery, and that the loss in price would be accepted. This was a complete surrender of his original contract, with the board, and succeeded only in defeating the other legitimate bidders, and halting further inquiry for the time.

That the present system of granting orders leads to abuse was clearly indicated and for the purpose of giving all interested persons an opportunity to bid for requisitions, the of ascertaining how and in what manner the provisions of Section 273h of the Penal Code were carried out. I found that the work was being conducted under the direct supervision of the sheriff, who, under the county charter of Los Angeles county, was allowed a captain and eight guards, all of whom are deputy sheriffs.

HUSBANDS IN CAGE
A camp has been established in Tumpango Canyon, and here is located a large steel cage, which is canvas covered, and which houses some eighty-four men. A cook is employed at a salary of seventy-five dollars a month and, in fact, a complete working camp which can be moved from place to place, is established in the vicinity of the work under way. At the present time, there are seventy-five men actually employed in the work, about half of whom are husbands who have been convicted of failure to provide for their families. The failure to provide wages, by the supervisors, allowed a sum not to exceed $1.50 a day, which amount is paid directly to the wives of the prisoners, or to those in charge of the children, as provided by law.

"The sheriff is very enthusiastic about the work and the economic provision of a cure and that he seldom has a failure to provide case come to him the second time since the system has been inaugurated. On the other hand, the road department is not enthusiastic about the work, claiming, as an economic provision, that it is not successful. It requires from twenty to twenty-five prisoners to do the work of four or five free men, while the cost of prison help is approximately twenty thousand dollars per mile, as against fifteen thousand dollars per mile with free help; and twelve thousand dollars per mile with free help and steam shovel.

I believe that the establishment of such a camp in Alameda county, provided it can be done without depriving men of employment, would be a good thing.

JAILS TOO "SOFT"
"First, because the open air conditions and the exercise resulting would be good for the physical development and improvement of the prisoners; and,

"Secondly, because I believe that a man who is not willing to provide for his family should not be permitted to sit in jail and play cards, smoke his pipe and get two square meals a day. I am further of the opinion that, if men who do not properly provide for their wives and children knew that if they were convicted in this county they would be placed at hard labor, we would have a good deal less trouble."

"I investigated this matter from all points of view, while in Los Angeles, and it is my intention to submit a special report to the Board of Supervisors of this county, in the hope that some way may be found whereby, without affecting the opportunity of our citizens to earn a living, that we may teach men who are willing to let others feed their families for them that Alameda county is not a healthy place for them to live in."

From throughout the state reports continue to be received at headquarters of the activity of the Republican County Central Committee in their work of stimulating the campaign among the Republicans for the regular ticket. From Kings county yesterday came word from S. P. Ross, secretary of the County Committee, that a general speaking campaign had been arranged to cover that county and running up to election day.

"The Republican party is alive and working," said Secretary Ross. "We will do everything in our power to have a big Republican vote polled for the nominees of the party. This county is and always has been Republican, so we are doubly sure of success for the ticket. We believe that the Republican party is coming into its own again in this state."

The entire southern part of the state is being handled from Los Angeles by regular Republican Primary Campaign Committee of the State Assembly, which has a list of names of candidates for the regular ticket. The campaign will be closed there on April 23 with a great Republican mass meeting at Trinity Auditorium in Los Angeles.

"We are making the fight for the Republican party," was the slogan, "and we can assure you in San Francisco that the south is with you in this campaign to maintain the integrity of our party. If the Republican party is worth while at this crisis in our national affairs, and we are doubly sure of success for the ticket. We believe that the Republican party is coming into its own again in this state."

It was that it is worth while, this campaign demand the support of every loyal Republican in California, man and woman, to uphold and to sustain the party. We believe that the state convention of our party, which was held in San Francisco last month, was a truly representative assembly, and we are confident for the nominee of that convention upon that proposition."

Charge Bill Would Create "Immortals"

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The hard fought bill incorporating the American Academy of Arts and Letters and numbering President Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt and 43 others among its charter members was passed by the House today and now goes to the Senate for approval. Its opponents charged its purpose was to create "immortals" while its supporters maintain its sole object is to further art and literature in America.

President to Insist on Brandeis' Nomination

WASHINGTON, April 12.—President Wilson, it was learned yesterday, is determined to stand behind the nomination of Louis D. Officials said that President would not consider withdrawing the nomination.

Posses Still Search One Cox Brother

AUBURN, April 12.—Posses are still searching the hills around Auburn and in the vicinity of Truckee today for Albert Cox, accused of shooting Constable H. H. Dependence.

Jim Cox, also implicated in the shooting, who surrendered yesterday, blames the attack for the attack on Dependence and says the officer was justified in returning with that of the constable, who is recovering from his wounds.

In talking to officers, Jim said he was sorry about the shooting and that he had no part in it. He said he had no part in it. He said he had no part in it.

Three Haircuts at Once Puzzles Court

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Can a barber give a man three haircuts at one sitting?

This was one of the questions up to Police Judge Morris Oppenheim today. F. Aheja appeared in court with his head bandaged and looked like a shaven head, a barber, had cut his hair wrong, kept the change when he handed him a half dollar, beat him up and broke his glasses.

Ganzko said he cut his hair three times. That the complaint was in the chair an hour and a half, had an electric tonic and kept him from waiting on three other customers.

Ganzko was dismissed but ordered to pay Aheja $7.50 to replace the glasses broken during the fight.

and is making good. It is our duty to back him up. I will uphold him."

"I favor holding up the doctor's hands, but want to have an investigation first," said Foss. "We should not turn a man out on the word because he won't be bullied by book fighters. It is easy to whitewash things."

"I am going to take the doctor's statement," said Murphy. "The doctor has never lied."

"Mr. King can come back when he obeys the rules," said Heyer. "He can't run the hospital, though."

The expulsion was passed over Foss' dissent. Heyer was absent. Supervisor Charles Heyer declared that the child of a wealthy family was recently operated on by Dr. Williams at the infirmary, and that they are willing to pay for the service. He asked if the county could accept the pay. This was referred to the District Attorney.

RESOLUTION OFFERED.
Supervisor Mullins offered the following resolution, which was adopted: Whereas, The great national game of baseball will be played on the local grounds for the first time this season by our Loyal Fighting Defenders, and Whereas, Every Oaklander is interested in seeing that proper encouragement be given them in their masterful effort to bring the pennant to our fair city; therefore be it

Resolved, By the Board of Supervisors that permission be given the employees of this board to attend the game this afternoon, to urge the Oaklanders to their glorious victory, providing, however, that each and every one is commanded to root louder and longer than the opponents' horribles."

J. MORGAN SCHUSTER DEFENDS ISLAND POLICY

contenting himself with his general remarks regarding the administration. But he did say positively that he thought he should not be bound by any considerations for the dignity of former President Taft.

It is true that I did make some statement regarding the criticism of these men in an informal talk to newspaper reporters at Manila. I explained that I did not usually speak to the press, but I did realize that my words were going to be published. I dislike to criticize a man who has been President of the United States, but since former President Taft has laid himself open by his outspoken charges and has been subscribed to sentiments which were absolutely at variance with the facts regarding the islands, I do not see why I should spare him. I was tired of hearing all this talk about the undoing of the work of Taft and of Tammany politics and of disrupting the government and I went over on a little vacation trip to investigate. It was not a "Colonel House" mission. I have been accused of that before. I have been suspected of making a political journey in the interest of the administration. That is not true. I do not even know President Wilson and when I say that I merely went for a holiday and make some observations my word must be taken.

WELL GOVERNED.

"I found what I expected—that the islands today are better governed than ever in their history. I found this by talking with Americans and Filipinos, and I want to say that for the first time the United States has appropriated successful colonial administration as far as the Philippine insular government is concerned."

"Heretofore American control of the islands has been thin, scheduled at times benevolent, dictatorship, military or civil, under Governor Harrison the Philippine people of all classes have felt that they were participating in the actual government of their country. Indeed they hold today complete control of the islands. The Philippine people are a progressive branch, since the Philippine commission is composed of but three Americans, including the governor general and five Filipinos, and this Filipino majority has existed during Governor Harrison's entire administration."

Schuster was asked upon what he based his criticism of Dean C. Worcester, who was secretary of the interior for the Philippines from 1901 until 1913, and who has recently returned to the islands.

"I do not know what Worcester's sentiments have been since returning to the islands this time," said Schuster. "But I do know and I base my statement upon letters written to New York papers by his relatives in the islands, in which he charged that Tammany politics were being employed in the awarding of positions, etc. I have not been in touch with the islands during the past year, do not receive the papers from Manila and therefore do not know what Worcester has continued his criticism or not."

Schuster was asked particularly what had led him to choose this particular time for "journeying to the Philippines." He answered:

"Apart from a natural desire to see people and places that I have known for many years, two questions of deep interest to me led me to pay this recent visit."

"First, to see for myself what progress had been made in carrying out the only policy which could morally justify any control of the Philippines, namely, helping the Philippine people to become a self-governing people."

"Second, to check upon the conditions existing in the islands and the progress so far made with my own belief that a straightforward definite policy, looking toward the early establishment of an independent Philippine government should be adopted by the present Congress."

LOOKING FOR POLITICS.

"I confess also to have had some curiosity to learn whether selfish or partisan politics here at home had influenced the attacks made on Governor Harrison's administration by Mr. Worcester. Schuster paid a tribute to the governorship of Mindanao and Sulu under the administration of Frank W. Carpenter, who, he says, was one man in ten million, and who, after two years, and justly, had put down religious prejudices and had established orderly communities everywhere, without the aid of a single American soldier."

Schuster asserted that he was convinced that today was not the proper time for independence for the Philippines, but that if they did not take independence when they could get it they would never get it and that he thought the present plan of Congress was better accepted and gone through than to wait a more desirable arrangement."

Schuster at first had declined to state what moved him to make the journey to the Philippines to obtain a favorable opinion of the present administration or what uses he intended to make of it. He had prepared a statement lauding Governor General Harrison's administration, however.

It was announced from Washington

CARRANZA TELLS AMERICANS TO QUIT

presented did not agree with the secretary's recollection of the preliminary negotiations. He said that the United States recognized the right of Mexico to ask withdrawal of troops, but that the government considered that the agreement entered into was still in force.

Administration officials, however, made no effort to conceal their feeling that Carranza's action might increase the delay of the circumstances under which the pursuit of Villa has been conducted.

The outstanding features of the situation give evidence that the expedition has been carried with a full realization that objections might arise, the possibilities have been considered and probably a decision has been reached as to what steps would be taken.

Throughout the note emphasis is laid on the fact that the American expedition was undertaken under a misunderstanding. Although acting in good faith, the declaration is made that the United States had interpreted the first note of the de facto government as effecting a definite agreement between the two nations. But the intention of the de facto government was that no expedition should be sent into Mexico until terms and conditions relative to an agreement were defined.

NO AGREEMENT.

The note declares therefore that in consequence of no final agreement having been reached, the terms of the treaty to regulate the reciprocal passage of troops over the dividing line, the Mexican government judges it convenient to suspend for the present all discussion or negotiations in this particular, as the expedition sent by the United States government in pursuit of Villa is without authorization in virtue of the non-existence of a previous agreement formal and definite.

What was intended by the note of March 10, it is pointed out, was to submit a proposition by means of which the forces of one and the other country could reciprocally cross the dividing line in pursuit of bandits if unfortunately there should be repeated along the border acts like those committed in Columbus.

Secretary Baker said he was unable to comment upon Carranza's note because it raised questions of administration policy entirely within the jurisdiction of the president and the state department.

SIDE ISSUES.

Although General Carranza raised side issues, administration officials at their first view of the communication regarded them as unimportant, being that the object of the punitive expedition has been accomplished so far as it can be, and that the Villa bandits have been dispersed.

War department officials take the view they have no evidence that the Carranza bandits have been dispersed, because they never had definite information of their number, and that the very nature of the situation gives no evidence that the raiders have been exterminated.

The despatch of the punitive expedition has been regarded as the protocol was characterized by state department officials as perfectly justified, by the correspondence between Secretary Lansing and Carranza.

Senator Gallinger, Republican leader, said he regarded the Mexican situation in such condition that Congress should be consulted on the future course. After a conference with Secretary Lansing, Chairman Flood of the House foreign affairs committee, said he saw no necessity for congressional action as the situation now stood.

A PAREWELL MESSAGE.

W. Morgan Schuster, secretary of public instruction for the Philippine islands, thus condensed his impression of things Philippine and announced the message, which he intends to take back to the people of the United States, Saturday afternoon aboard the Loongsang, which left Manila for Hongkong, where Mr. Schuster is to connect with the Empress of Russia sailing on March 22 for the homeland.

"As for my message to the Philippine people, tell them from me," he continued, "that I have always loved the Philippine people and that I have been in their days of adversity, and now I love them still more, as I see them on the threshold of the realization of their hopes and aspirations."

FOR INDEPENDENCE.

"I have told the Philippine people, and you may repeat my message for me, whether independence comes with protection, with guarantee or without it, or should it come with a penalty attached and at enormous cost, I, as a Filipino, would not hesitate a moment to accept it."

Mr. Schuster declared that he already had expressed his views on Philippine matters so frequently during his present stay that it would be useless for him to attempt to repeat them.

"I have said what I have said to say to you that I am going to leave you your opportunity to make the most of it. If I have made myself clear I am satisfied," he declared in a parting shot as the score or more of his intimate friends who went out in the bay to see him off closed around him.

An hour before boarding the steamer Schuster was guest of honor at a banquet tendered him jointly by the Tiro al Blanco, the Club Filipino, the Nationalist Club and the Columbian Association. Manuel E. Arzobispo, one of the two Philippine delegates to Congress, was toastmaster.

Order Creates No Surprise Along Border

EL PASO, Texas, April 13.—Mexican officials here, eyed no surprise over the news today that Provisional President Carranza had asked that the United States withdraw the chief representative of the de facto government on the border, said he felt the United States would receive the note in the same fair and friendly spirit in which it was sent.

Mr. Garcia pointed out that under the orders General Carranza the American troops should retire from Mexico, when the forces of the de facto government were in position to take over the pursuit of the Villistas. The Mexican commander in chief, General Carranza, had already effect their further destruction. Garcia added that he did not believe Villa was dead, but he was convinced that the bandit's power was broken and could never be restored.

El Paso and Juarez took the news of Carranza's request calmly, but expectantly realizing that the next word must come from Washington. Army officials did not care to discuss the situation indicated that the chase of the Villistas would continue until orders had been received from Washington calling to halt.

And the troops he recalled, it is thought that it will require three or four weeks to bring the last American soldier to this side of the border. Consul Garcia intimated that the de facto government would consent to the withdrawal of American troops for the withdrawal of troops, the railway were used, the troops could be taken out in about a week.

General Bell has repeatedly given assurances that should any excitement or trouble arise over the development of the withdrawal of troops, the United States and Mexico, the army is amply prepared to meet the situation along the border.

facto government would consent to the withdrawal of American troops for the withdrawal of troops, the railway were used, the troops could be taken out in about a week.

Full Text of Note Asking Withdrawal of U.S. Troops

The note sent to Secretary Lansing follows:

Your Excellency, Robert Lansing, Secretary of the United States, Washington.

The Mexican Government, in its desire to conserve cordial and unchangeable good relations of friendship which ought to exist between Mexico and the United States, as much for the sentiment that animates this Government as for a desire of satisfying the spirit of Article 23 of the Treaty of Friendship celebrated between both countries on February 2, 1848, and in view of the lamentable happenings that took place in Columbus on March 8 last, and considering the historical antecedents in similar cases, did not hesitate to make to the Government of the United States, under date of March 10, a proposal by means of which the forces of the de facto government could reciprocally cross the dividing line in pursuit of bandits if, unfortunately, there should be repeated along the border acts like those committed in Columbus. For, from the beginning, the Mexican Government, moved by reason of the time which had transpired and for the purpose of treating a case already passed, the said incident could not remain comprehended as a proposal for the reciprocal passage of troops.

ACTION CAUSED SURPRISE.

On the same date the Mexican government answered the note, manifesting surprise that without any official advice whatever on the part of the United States government American troops had crossed over into Mexican territory and were already in Cuscutlan or its surroundings.

On the 13th of March our confidential agent in Washington had an interview with one Frank Polk, then Secretary to the State Department, and he expressed to our confidential agent that he deplored not having received the observations of the Mexican Government before the passage of American forces over the frontier, and assured our agent that the passage of these troops took place in the best of faith and in the belief that it would not be necessary to enter into more particulars and details of an agreement was considered definite and agreed.

CONDITIONAL PROPOSITION.

It is for this reason that the note of our Government, sent on March 10, indicates with all clearness that the proposition contained in it was conditional, or, what is the same, that it was subject to the condition that the Mexican Government should not be repeated at any other point on the frontier line.

The American Government, relying on the text of said note, and without having penetrated all these conditions of limitation, but rather, believing in the existence of a definite agreement, as is indicated in the terms of its note of March 10, gave expression to its views as follows:

That, in view of the content to this reciprocal agreement proposed by the de facto government of Mexico, this agreement is now complete and in vigor, and the reciprocal privilege of pursuing and chasing Villa and his party of outlaws, and the expedition was sent some days after the wrongdoers had returned to Mexican territory.

NEVER GAVE CONSENT.

On March 17 the Mexican Government sent a note to the American Government, in which our confidential agent in Washington, Licenciado Eliseo Arredondo, stating that the Mexican Government had reliable information that, without knowledge or advice of the nearest civil and military authorities, and without sending any communication on the part of the American Government, a so-called punitive expedition had passed through Palomas, with the object of pursuing Villa and his party.

As a consequence of the said communication our confidential agent was instructed to call the attention of the United States Government to the fact that it was giving a crooked interpretation to the text of the note of March 10, and that the Government of Mexico was disposed to sustain its proposal regarding the reciprocal passage of troops, but that an expedition could not be sent on March 10, as the terms and conditions relative to the agreement were not defined.

This Government insists in its note of March 10 that the reciprocal passage of troops would be permitted only if, and only if, the Mexican Government, from the moment of sending the note of March 10, would there should be repeated irruptions like the one registered at Columbus or of any other kind whatever at any part of the frontier line.

In the meantime, the Mexican government, faithful to its proposal and with the intention of fulfilling strictly its compromise, began drawing up a project for the reciprocal passage of troops, which was presented with all form to the United States government under date of March 13, it being hoped that the terms and conditions established in the said agreement would meet with approval.

The American Government, through the medium of our confidential agent, communicated that in principle it accepted the agreement and was only studying the points in detail in order to finish it. So things went on until the nineteenth of March, when the Hon. James Lynn Rodgers presented the observations of the Mexican Government to the corresponding authorities in Chihuahua should give the necessary instructions to permit that some provisions be transported by the Northwestern railway for the American troops pursuing Villa and his party.

OBJECT FULFILLED.

In consequence of the facts previously expressed, as no final agreement has been reached as to the terms of a treaty to regulate in general the reciprocal passage of troops over the dividing line, the purpose of pursuing outlaws who may benefit their commitments in one or the other country, the Mexican government judges it convenient to suspend for the present all discussion or negotiations in this particular, or founded on the circumstances that the expedition sent by the United States government to pursue Villa is without foundation in virtue of the non-existence of a previous agreement, formal and definite, and as that expedition has fulfilled its object in so far as it will be able to do so, as the party headed by Villa has already been dispersed, and, finally, because there are Mexican troops in sufficient number pursuing them, and more forces are being sent to exterminate the remnants of the beaten party, the first chief of the Constitutional army, charged with the executive power of the nation, considers that it is already time to treat with the United States Government for the withdrawal of their forces from our territory.

I take this opportunity to refer to your Excellency my very distinguished estimation and consideration.

What Schuster Said Before He Sailed Away From Orient

W. Morgan Schuster's speech, in which he used the "pack of damned lies" phrase was delivered in Manila March 19, aboard the steamer Loongsang, which was about to sail for Hongkong, China. The account of leave-taking by the Manila Bulletin, which Schuster today confirmed, is as follows:

"What am I going to tell the American people about the Philippines?"

"I am going to tell them that conditions in the islands today are better than they have been at any time during the seventeen years that I have been either directly connected with their administration or closely observing it. There is a spirit of harmony and of solidarity, for which Governor General Harrison and his associates are largely responsible. Too much credit cannot be given to these men and to those who have supported them in their efforts. That is what I intend to tell the people at home, and I also intend to tell them that I am a Filipino."

LOOKING FOR POLITICS.

"I confess also to have had some curiosity to learn whether selfish or partisan politics here at home had influenced the attacks made on Governor Harrison's administration by Mr. Worcester. Schuster paid a tribute to the governorship of Mindanao and Sulu under the administration of Frank W. Carpenter, who, he says, was one man in ten million, and who, after two years, and justly, had put down religious prejudices and had established orderly communities everywhere, without the aid of a single American soldier."

Schuster at first had declined to state what moved him to make the journey to the Philippines to obtain a favorable opinion of the present administration or what uses he intended to make of it. He had prepared a statement lauding Governor General Harrison's administration, however.

matrs have struggled for the last year to avoid.

In view of the conclusive nature of the information of the Sussex already before the State Department officials cannot see how Germany can continue to deny responsibility for the destruction of the ship.

The suggestion of arbitration in the German note was met with the statement that the American government would not arbitrate a question involving American lives.

Careful examination of the German reply led officials to conclude that the case of the United States had been materially strengthened. The singularity between the circumstances surrounding the attack on a steamer in the English channel admitted in the German note and those surrounding the Sussex case, caused officials to feel there no longer is any doubt that the vessel was the Sussex.

FRENCH HAVE PROOF.

PARIS, April 13.—The French government not only has thirteen fragments of the torpedo which was launched at the channel steamer Sussex, but it also has the names of all sailors on the attacking German submarine. It was officially claimed today.

The information concerning the identity of those aboard the submarine which attacked the Sussex was obtained from the crew of a U boat captured April 1.

Your Excellency further assured us that in exercising that privilege of entering our territory, the American Government would confine their military operations only to the object of their expedition, and that they would retire immediately afterwards to their own country. Your Excellency also stated that the American Government would not permit the use of force by means of which the United States forces had permission to pursue Villa and his party in Mexican territory, and that the American Government would respect the confidence shown it and that it would, by no means, violate Mexico's sovereignty or abuse the privilege so generously and freely granted it.

Furthermore, the Honorable Secretary of the State Department, Mr. Polk, in conference with our confidential agent in Washington, declared that the United States Government acted in good faith in sending its expedition into Mexico in pursuit of Villa on the supposition that the note of March 10 contained a definite agreement; but that the American Government was constrained to let the expedition remain in Mexican territory until details of an agreement could be arranged. (Next sentence illegible.)

FRENCH HALT VAST ATTACK UPON VERDUN

Germans Pause to Bring Up Reserves and Munitions

PARIS, April 13.—Another bull has fallen on the Verdun battlefield, as the Germans have been obliged to pause in order to fill up the gaps in their ranks, to replace damaged guns and to bring up munitions preparatory to further onslaughts.

It is believed that the French commander is not likely to modify his methods. General Petain is said to be quite satisfied so long as the Germans go on losing three times as many men as the French for unimportant results, as he knows that he has ample reserves to press a counter attack on a large scale when the opportune time comes and stocks of ammunition which are practically inexhaustible.

Since the first month of the war the output of 2-inch shells in France increased 33 1/2 times, of 4-inch shells 44 times. Twenty-three times as many 75-millimeter guns are being made as in August, 1914; and the manufacture of heavy guns has increased in the same ratio.

GERMAN ATTACK RAILS.

The German general attack on the left bank of the Meuse, which began on Sunday, is regarded as having been beaten and the Germans have reverted to the previous relatively small alternate strokes against the French positions on both sides of the river and to artillery operations. When the remaining French positions along Forges Brook had been straightened out the Germans were able to engage the principal line west of the river from Avocourt by hill No. 304 and Dead Man's hill to Cumleux.

Only frontal attacks under difficulties were possible, except at Dead Man's hill, where the Germans were able to attack through the ravines. The French, however, a mass between Dead Man's hill and Cumleux and to work around the south of the hill in order to envelope it. After two days of hard fighting this maneuver failed and with it is believed to have collapsed the main idea of that particular German attack. The small gain the Germans made northeast of the hill is not regarded as of a nature to modify the situation.

GENERALSHIP SHOWN.

The military observers point out that General Petain once more has succeeded with a minimum of waste in beating off with heavy losses the adversary's attack, thereby increasing the morale of the army and enhancing his own reputation.

its object in so far as it will be able to do so, as the party headed by Villa has already been dispersed, and, finally, because there are Mexican troops in sufficient number pursuing them, and more forces are being sent to exterminate the remnants of the beaten party, the first chief of the Constitutional army, charged with the executive power of the nation, considers that it is already time to treat with the United States Government for the withdrawal of their forces from our territory.

baseball to Mayor W. H. Christie of Emeryville, in the Coast League Park. The Oaks faced their Portland opponents in the first game of the season in their home town.

They played fast, cheered by the support of a general outpouring of the citizenry of Oakland. Business cares had been forgotten, affairs of the public weal laid aside—even the schools had suspended in honor of the first appearance of the Oaks in the city whose name they bear and whose fame they are to uphold during the baseball season.

Outside the park long lines of automobiles surrounded the high board fence and stretched away for blocks. These were the machines that, before the game, wound through the streets of Oakland in the great parade, Oakland's official recognition of the importance of the occasion, and "send-off" to the boys of the team.

From the time the big luncheon to the players, held in the Hotel Oakland under the auspices of Oakland's business men, opened, until the parade drew up before the grounds, enthusiasm was rampant, and the very spirit of victory hovered over the thousands who had turned out to do honor to the standard-bearers of Oakland's fandom. It was not only a gathering of "fans" that gave the Oakland team its "send-off" today. Men and women of every walk of life—most of them "fans" of course, for most Americans claim that distinction—but many others who never see ball games, but came out of civic pride in the long parade, and thronged the Hotel Oakland for the luncheon, when Mayor Davis, H. C. Capwell, Allan Baum, president of the Coast League, and the team managers spoke of the importance of baseball to Amer-land manager, forgot their rivalry at the luncheon, and good fellowship and the "boost" spirit reigned supreme. Only when the men settled down to the game did they remember they were rivals for the pennant, and then every man played his hardest. Baseball was the talk of Oakland.

GATHER AT LUNCHEON.
Never in the history of Western baseball was there such a meeting as that at Hotel Oakland today, when over 600 delicious Oakland business men started the Oakland baseball team on its way in the fight for the pennant. The enthusiasm and the spirit were unbounded, as evidenced by a subscription of more than $4000 which will be paid to the members of the Oakland club as a bonus if the pennant comes to this city. The fund will be increased to $6000.

The luncheon was presided over by H. C. Capwell and participated in by members of every big civic organization in Oakland.

Capwell was the first speaker. "We, in Oakland, are behind you to the last minute, you Oakland players," he said, "and while we do not demand that you win the pennant, we do expect you to start something, and to keep fighting."

Mayor John L. Davis was the next speaker. "It is said that people usually get what they deserve," he remarked. "Well, Oakland deserves a championship team. Let's have it!"

Joseph L. Kim, president of the Chamber of Commerce; President V. O. Lawrence of the Rotary Club, and Postmaster J. J. Rosborough, speaking for the Progress and Prosperity Committee, gave assurance of support. E. W. Leavitt, president of the Oakland Baseball Association; Manager Harold Elliott; and Captain William Kenworthy of the Oakland club; Manager Walter McCredie of the Portland club and A. T. Baum, president of the Pacific Coast League, also spoke.

FEARS BROTHER INTENDS SUICIDE

Dr. Francis Kleeman is Held for Investigation of Sanity.

Dr. Francis C. Kleeman, a local dentist, is being held at the emergency hospital under observation as to his sanity. A complaint sworn to by his brother, Dr. George B. Kleeman, sought his commitment on the grounds that he had threatened to commit suicide. When taken to the hospital a vial of poison was found in his pocket.

When the matter of his examination came up before the Superior Court this morning relatives decided to withdraw the insanity information and swear to a complaint charging intemperance.

Dr. Francis Kleeman and his brother are heirs to the $100,000 estate of the late William Kleeman. Dr. George Kleeman recently sued his mother, Mrs. Natalie Kleeman, seeking to prevent her from mortgaging or selling valuable property at California and Kearny streets, San Francisco. He alleged that his mother had filed an old will drawn by his father in 1887 instead of a later will drawn in 1893, which provided for a division of his estate. The will as probated left the entire estate to the widow.

Dr. George Kleeman said that at the time this will was probated he believed that his mother had produced the last will through which he, his brother and two sisters would share equally in a half of the estate in the year 1914. He lost his suit and has appealed the case to the Supreme Court.

Killed in the two counties during March. The total number killed since the campaign started is estimated at 20,000.

WOMEN'S NEWS

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—Declaring there is justification in the eyes of both God and man for her desertion of her husband and three small children, because of her love for another man, Mrs. Georgia Nash of Chino yesterday made a remarkable appeal to the public to arrest its judgment until she is heard. There is even justification that she does not want the mother's right to care for her children, she said.

Leslie Kenyon, a young rancher, for whom Mrs. Nash left her family at Chino and fled to Santa Ana, and with whom she was arrested and married, both Kenyon and Mrs. Nash are accused before the Superior Court of San Bernardino County of lawfully refusing to avail herself of the court's act of releasing her without bail and accompanying Kenyon to jail, where only she the latter refused to allow her to either visit Kenyon in his cell or write him notes that she left. Mrs. Nash, not yet out of her twenty-first year.

"SOUL IN BONDAGE."
"Does the world mean to rule that my soul must be locked in continual bondage with a man I do not love and whom I cannot love?"

"The people who criticize me, who cannot understand how I can leave my three children with no feeling of desire to have them back, do not know my life. They cannot look into my soul, perhaps cannot even contemplate the passion of my new love."

My husband molded my life for me, and it has been this life that has sent me into the paths into which I have turned.

I was married when I was 15 years old. I did not know what I was doing. No girl can at that age. They have not reached real love, a child's love, then the children came. The first to now nine years, the second seven and the last five years. My husband gave me no home for my own. He required me to live with his family. I was required to work out. I became a servant in my own home.

MOTHER LOVE DULLED.
"My husband's mother is their mother of every-day life. They know her better than they know me. But could my mother dull the motherly instinct. I could not help it. I had to work hard every day. Now I think that the children should remain with her. My husband's cruelty changed my life."

"My husband doesn't want me punished. He wants only Mr. Kenyon punished, but if he is guilty, so am I guilty and I want to suffer with him if he has a suffer."

"Before I left that day to go to Mr. Kenyon at Santa Ana, we talked it all over. My husband and his mother. They decided that if I wanted to go to him I was to go. My mother-in-law even gave me the money to buy my ticket to Santa Ana, and then they held me arrested. I thought it was all understood."

I love Mr. Kenyon as I never dreamed before a woman could love. I would go to him now, but they won't let me."

MINING MAN SHOT; DEATH OF ASSAULT.
PLACERVILLE, April 13.—Cash Fletcher, a mining man, was shot and instantly killed by Louis White, a miner, early last night, when he attempted to molest the latter's wife after knocking White down with a blow from his fist.

White surrendered to Sheriff Charles D. Hand immediately after the shooting. He is now in the county jail.

Fletcher told the sheriff that Fletcher, who had been his guest for the past two days, came home tonight in a drunken, quarrelsome mood. He knocked White down and then attempted to molest Mrs. White, who is the mother of three small children. White seized a rifle and shot Fletcher through the head. Fletcher's home was in Diamond Springs, three miles from here. He was about 25 years old and married. His father lives on a farm near Nashville, El Dorado county.

GARDEN BEDTIME STORY

ROAD D. GARDEN

"Where are you going, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Puzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, as she saw the rabbit gentleman standing in the front steps of his new hickory nut house in the woods one morning.

"Where are you going?" "Oh, just for a walk through the woods, to see the hickory nut tree. It is so nice in the woods, with the flowers coming up, and the leaves getting larger and greener every day, that I just love to walk there."

"Well," said Nurse Jane with a laugh, "if you happen to see a bread-cake in the woods, bring home a loaf for supper."

"I will," promised Uncle Wiggily. "You know Nurse Jane, there really is a tree on which bread-cakes grow, though not in this country. But I can get you a loaf of bread at the five and ten cent store I share."

"No, please," asked the muskrat lady. "And if you see a coconut tree you might bring home a coconut cake for supper."

"Oh, my, laughed the rabbit gentleman. 'But I don't see any coconut trees in my woods. I could bring you home a hickory nut cake, perhaps.'"

"Well, whatever you like," spoke Nurse Jane. "But don't get lost, please, ever you do, and if you meet with an adventure I hope it will be a nice one."

"So do I," Uncle Wiggily said, as he bowed off, leaving on his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch which Nurse Jane had gnawed for him out of a coconut."

The old rabbit gentleman had not gone very far before he met Dr. Possum walking along in the woods with his stomach full of hickory nut cake. "Hello, Dr. Possum," said Uncle Wiggily. "How are you?"

"What in the world are you doing, Dr. Possum?" asked Uncle Wiggily, as he saw the animal doctor pulling bark off a tree. "Are you going to make a canoe, as the Indians used to do?"

"Oh, the children should remain with their mother. My husband's cruelty changed my life. My husband doesn't want me punished. He wants only Mr. Kenyon punished, but if he is guilty, so am I guilty and I want to suffer with him if he has a suffer."

BEAUTY SUGGESTS WAY TO RETAIN YOUTH AND HEALTH

To develop the muscles that lie about the waist Miss Johnson squats on the floor, drawing the knees after the other upward to her chin. She crawls on all fours, as do the members of the animal kingdom. In this position, too, she finds aids to beauty.

STAGE BEAUTY AVENUE Promotes Grace, Says Lillian Russell

MATHEW theatricals' open an avenue to beauty. Every girl who appears on the stage or platform wants to be graceful and pretty. Preparations for participation in a play—even an amateur production—include the development of grace, the cultivation of speech and self-control and general improvement in the personal appearance. It involves mental and physical training that is beautifying in its effects.

I find that few girls pass a certain birthday without expressing surprise at an ambition to "go on the stage." Many have concluded their ambitions to me. Parents usually discourage such thoughts. I always tell the girls to try amateur theatricals, for very often their ambitions are merely a passing fancy. The "footlights" plaudits and admiration make a strong appeal to them. They crave excitement. The romance in their budding natures suggests the stage and its romantic mysteries. I suppose every girl at some time feels that she is a bit subject to be wooed by a hero, even though the feeling be fictitious and a part of a "stage's play."

Girls want to be Juliet. They would like to play opposite to their stage heroes, and invariably aspire to roles that are filled with romance and sentiment, even dramatic tragedy. Amateur theatricals provides channels through which such aspirations can be brought into play.

If strange encounters make theatricals, instead of directly opposing the wishes of young people who desire stage careers, they would capitalize the ambitions of their children and at the same time show them whether they are fitted for such positions in life. Older persons could derive great benefits through participation in the same for their entertainment.

I encourage young women and men to take part in amateur theatricals for several reasons. Such productions often bore audiences unless their eyes reach deep into the hearts of the youthful players and see the emotions that govern them. Discerning eyes are not bothered or bored, for they see the players cultivating talents and developing personal charms. The benefits to be found in amateur theatricals are numerous. They include an excursion into literary fields, if wisdom is exercised in the selection of plays. Rehearsals provide wholesome entertainment. The players practice walking and talking. They gain control of their muscles, nerves and minds. Their experience promotes confidence in themselves. Boys and girls know that awkwardness in speech and movement has no part in theatricals. Their efforts to become graceful and confident. Once revealed, there is a disposition to correct them.

Whether you are old or young, do you know how to walk? Do you walk correctly? If you want answers to these questions try theatricals. Such an attempt should call your attention to your steps and bearing. If not, your coach will. If you are awkward, he will remind you of the defect until you move gracefully and easily.

Is there music in your voice? When you laugh do you cackle? Do you utter harsh, guttural or sharp nasal tones? There is a great deal of music in laughter if you know how to laugh. When you assume a role in either amateur or professional stage productions you are almost certain to become better acquainted with yourself. There will be plenty of critics to point out your defects. You will sculpture new ideas of the value of grace and poise, self-control, a well-modulated voice and the charms and accomplishments which win admiration and respect.

How the name Kayser protects you. Look for the name "Kayser" in the hem of the silk gloves you buy. This is your protection against the unknown glove, the cut-price or sale glove. The guarantee ticket is additional assurance that Kayser Silk Gloves will give you the utmost service. Read the guarantee ticket carefully. It was Kayser, the pioneer silk glove maker, who originated the double-finger-tips. Kayser has so developed and perfected the silk glove that this broad guarantee is possible. Two clasp are always 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and up; twelve and sixteen button lengths are always 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 and up. The name "Kayser" is in the hem, and with each pair is a guarantee ticket that the tips will outwear the gloves.

The front row consists of ten players in white uniforms with dark belts and caps, standing on a field. The back row features a manager in a suit and tie, flanked by two more players. Lee Johnson Unsteady
On Feet Gets But Draw
Colored Phenom Goes to Canvas
From Own Efforts Twice

Lee Johnson, the clever little West Oakland featherweight mauler, has his own self to blame for not beating Eddie Miller last night. In a four-round bout at the Wheelmen Club which held the audience from the start, Johnson seemed to outpace and outwit the clever Mission boy at will. Lee's old-time left and right hooks and his ability to feint his opponent into leading and then bringing over a solid hook to the jaw was never more in evidence.

However, Lee found it pretty hard to keep away from the canvased floor last evening. Twice during the four-round session, in the second and again in the third round, he bounced to the floor with a crash that did fair to shake up Jack Murphy's pavilion. Each time it was after Lee had missed a right swing and had run up against Miller's snappy right uppercut. The punches didn't hurt Johnson in the least, for he bounced up twice faster than he went down.

Outside from his endeavor to sit down on the floor now and then, Lee boxed in splendid fashion last night, in a way that is sure to spell trouble for the Malones and Arrouses around here. His work in the last round was the best of the night. Crouching and hooking his opponent with fierce jolts at will, he stepped around Miller like a dancing mauler.

The first round was even, while considering the knockdowns, or "sit-downs," as one may choose to call them, Miller had the second and third rounds. He assumed the aggressive in each of these rounds, but Johnson made a mistake by following Miller up after each punch with a result that Eddie made him taste all the morning sickness of the fight.

LEE HAS THE FOURTH.

In the final round, however, Lee changed his style and instead of following Eddie up, he made Miller come to him and hooked him with right and left hooks. Both boys were scrapping hard at the bell, but Johnson gave his verdict to Miller, while Dick Adams called for a draw and Bill L'Heureux gave Johnson the best of it.

The special and preliminary events were all interesting affairs, every one going the limit. Thus the fans witnessed all of the scheduled 32 rounds of milling last evening. Willie Robinson was too clever for Frank Lischer and outboxed the East Oakland boy with ease. He worked in and out methodically and gave Lischer every chance to get his famous right cross over the one that almost rocked Willie to sleep in their last bout.

GOVERNMENT DOESN'T WANT PICTURES

NEW YORK, April 13.—That the government is determined to prosecute the attempt to evade the law forbidding the importation of pirated films by displaying pictures of the Johnson-Willard fight was made clear today when the United States district attorney declared he had prepared warrants for seven men.

The government will contend that the re-photographing of the negatives taken in Havana by setting up a camera on the Canadian line was a more subtle method which violated the spirit of the federal law.

HIGH STANDARDS

One reason why this bank has become a large factor in the important financial affairs of Oakland is that it has always maintained a high standard of ideals.

It has confined its business to strictly legitimate channels and has always sought stability rather than large profits.

It has won the confidence of banks and business men and individuals who recognize the value of high standards in business.

HIGH STANDARDS

One reason why this bank has become a large factor in the important financial affairs of Oakland is that it has always maintained a high standard of ideals.

It has confined its business to strictly legitimate
channels and has always sought stability rather than
large profits.

It has won the confidence of banks and business men
and individuals who recognize the value of high standards in business.

CARRANZA'S ACTS TREACHEROUS.

The expected has happened. General Carranza, self-styled First Chief of the de facto government of Mexico, has demanded that the American troops sent into Mexico to capture the bandit gang, headed by Villa, who invaded American territory and killed men and women in their homes in Columbus, New Mexico, be withdrawn from Mexican soil.

The object of the expedition has not been accomplished. American military forces have, however, exerted every effort possible under the trying circumstances to capture Villa and his fellow murderers and they have confined their military acts strictly to the avowed and acknowledged worthy and legal purpose which originally provoked the sending of the punitive expedition.

To comply with the request of Carranza before Villa is taken, dead or alive, would be to acknowledge failure. It would be more than failure for the troops in Mexico under the command of General Pershing; it would be failure on the part of the American government and failure by the American people.

We cannot afford at this time the further loss of prestige and national moral force in the eyes of Mexicans, of other Latin-Americans and of the entire world, which would result from acknowledging such a failure.

Carranza has never been honest in his assertions that he was willing to cooperate with United States troops in the campaign against border raiders. He has never made a really serious effort to capture Villa; before or after the Columbus outrage. He played false with the United States by refusing the use of the Mexican railways to transport troops and their supplies. He has now merely put his obstructive tactics into a formal public statement.

We should not withdraw our troops from Mexico until Villa is taken and Mexicans everywhere made to understand that the American side of the Rio Grande River must forever be a safe place of residence for American citizens.

We have over twenty thousand troops in Mexico and along the border. It is not enough. The administration should send more soldiers and make every possible preparation to meet armed attack and opposition from Carranza's soldiers. His request to the State Department is the prelude to his joining forces with the Villistas and turning against our troops if they remain there much longer against his wishes.

If our punitive army does stick to its job until it is finished, as surely ought to be done, it must at once be made strong enough to defend itself successfully against Carranza's treachery.

NO RECALL ELECTION.

In commending the action of the Chauffeurs' Union in deciding not to go ahead with the recall of the Mayor and members of the City Council we wish to be understood as being actuated by only those motives which inspired the chauffeurs to abandon their recall. They set forth in a signed statement that the recall should not be used as a punitive weapon against officials who enacted legislation displeasing to a portion of the voters; that such use is an abuse of the recall, and that it would not be good citizenship to inflict the city with the irritation and expense of a special election at this time.

These points were made by The TRIBUNE at the time the question of recalling the city administration was first raised. They were stated with an absolutely open mind as to the conflicting interests of the jitney drivers and the street railway company and of the action of the City Council, and with our sympathies for any side of the controversy entirely subdued. The recall should not be used as a club to coerce officials into action desired by proponents of a question. We did not wish to see an exhibition of this temper in Oakland. If such tactics are long followed they will surely result in bringing the recall into disfavor and ultimately cause it to be repealed. The proper procedure would have been to recall the ordinance objected to and to submit a new ordinance for the approval of the voters.

We are glad that the city is to escape the annoyances of a special election which would have greatly interfered with the program of development and upbuilding mapped out for the present year, and meant heavy and unnecessary expense to the taxpayer. The recall committee adopted a praiseworthy course and displayed good judgment.

One passage of the statement given out by the Chauffeurs' Union regarding the misuse of the recall should be seriously considered by all voters of any community. It is:

To attempt to punish an official by recall for what must, in this case, be supposed to be error of judgment and weakness, is, we believe, a misuse of the recall. The recall is a powerful instrument in the hands of the people when wisely used and we believe that the preservation of that principle of government on which the recall is founded is of greater importance than the mere punishment of any unworthy public official. Only when some larger public good may be accomplished should a recall be invoked, and then only in the last extremity, when all other means have failed.

TO BASEBALL.

Oakland turned out in force today to show its affection for that greatest of all athletic sports, baseball, a game that would not be half the game it is were it not for the able participation in it of California players, and which would lose much of its luster if robbed of the product of an Oakland institution, St. Mary's college. No such enthusiasm has ever been shown here before. The old game seems to be coming back into its own, reviving from that despondency of the last two years superinduced by an overdose of speculative competition.

The fans look with favor upon the local team today. In the first week of the season the Oaks have demonstrated their claim to consideration by beating another aggregation of players. It is enough to start pennant talk and to turn approval into affection. Such is the fickle baseball heart of a fan. If our team should lose a few games in a row, what a wail we would hear! We hope they don't lose. The "crab" and the hammer-wielder are bad company. But if they do lose but keep on trying to represent Oakland with credit and lose only to better teams, if there are any such, let us stand by the ball team any way.

We have not had a winning team for several years. Not even a "first division" team. The management seems to have made an extra effort to collect a winning combination and do something to promote the prestige of the city. We start off confident that they have done a pretty good job. If we have to lose our hopes as to the pennant, let us keep up our loyal support so long as the team is trying. Otherwise today's great crowd will not have counted for much. We ought to be constant in our support and thereby insist upon a team that will win the Pacific Coast League championship every season. We ought to become famous as the baseball Athens of the World. Nothing is too good for us.

STILL NO REGULAR DEFENSE BILLS.

Senator Underwood stated the other day that in all his more than twenty years in Congress he had never known such delay in discharging the nation's legislative business as that now being exhibited by the Senate. Representative Champ Clark, speaker of the House, commenting on the charges of dilatoriness against Congress, says there has been much loose talk on the subject, some of it idiotic, some of it malicious, and that the statement that the House is not working at all is a bald and malicious lie. Then he takes a slap at the President in these words:

"Every human being with two ideas above a Hottentot knows that Congress is just as anxious to adjourn before the conventions as the President is."

Thus do three distinguished leaders of the administration differ upon a simple statement of fact while each is trying to put the accelerator under the other. All the while the record of contested bills enacted by either branch of Congress remains discouragingly low.

ABILITY IN THE SENATE.

(From Collier's.)

Whenever an issue comes up in the Senate between the Democrats and Republicans, the Republican minority usually shows up better both in strategy and in debate. This superiority was demonstrated in the debate on a government plan for the manufacture of armor plate. The Democrats had resolved to establish such a plant, and about all they contributed to the debate was a truer determination to pass the measure because they had the power, regardless of the merits of the debate. Quite regardless of what one may think about the desirability or undesirability of government manufacture of armor plate, Senator Lodge's generalship of the opposition was quite as admirable as anything one ever sees in the debates of any deliberative body. He took a safe text from the testimony of Admiral Strauss:

"If the private firms will furnish armor at a fair profit, and will continue to do so under all conditions, I see no special advantage in the Government going into the business. It all depends on what a fair profit is."

To this text the Republicans stuck closely. The other Massachusetts Senator, Mr. Weeks, led the parliamentary strategy. He introduced a substitute measure which provided that the Secretary of the Navy shall make contracts with existing armor-plate manufacturers.

"The price to be paid for armor plate thus constructed to be the cost of manufacture . . . under a scientific system of accounting . . . to which shall be added 6 per cent per annum upon the capital employed in the business."

Here was the alternative to Government ownership placed in the most desirable possible light. Senator Weeks insisted upon a roll call, and the Democrats universally voted against it. Senator Weeks' strategy put them on record as being in favor of Government ownership for Government ownership's sake. Still later Senator Weeks introduced another amendment to this effect:

"That expert chartered public accountants shall be employed to open a set of books, which shall exhibit every item of expense, direct and collateral, which may properly be charged against the preparation of the plans, the selection and purchase of a site, the construction and equipment of the proposed plant, and the cost per ton of the output for each month of the operation of the plant."

Against this, also, every Democrat voted. Senator Weeks had put them on record as being for Government ownership regardless of cost and, still worse, as being opposed to the ascertainment of cost. Of course this is the sort of thing which a minority party can always do, but the fact remains that the conduct of the Republican minority in the Senate is more impressive than that of the Democratic majority.

NOTES and COMMENT

Well, the infection is about to recur. A date has been fixed for the beginning of the second trial of Slaughter.

The news is that a scow of beer has been seized at Seattle. One effect, at least, of prohibition is manifest here: The scow succeeds the schooner.

Two Vs are just now on the screen as centers of attention—Verdun and Villa. To the people of Europe our V may seem a trifle, but to us he is serious enough.

The Senate has voted to continue the tax on sugar till May, 1920. By that time the upper house will have been fitted with another complexion, and the subsequent proceedings will be different.

On Monday next ten years will have elapsed, during which time the communities herabout have been rather industriously forgetting it and repairing damages. They have not performed badly in either particular.

Villa might at least submit to a surgical examination so that some hundred million readers could really know whether he has been shot in a leg, has had one amputated, is suffering from gangrene, or is dead and buried.

"Fearing trouble at the prayer meeting tomorrow night, peace officers have received instructions to be in attendance and quell any attempt at a riot." The news is from Chicago. Any supplication that ascends to the Throne of Grace under such circumstances must be effective, indeed!

The result of the election where wet and dry propositions were involved was quite indefinite. Some towns that had been dry went wet, and vice versa, with the vote generally close. Very largely local conditions other than the liquor question were the determining factors of that issue.

The way in which they do things in Mexico is different, if not exactly genial. Fourteen Villistas are to be shot at Juarez, one by one, "before a crowd which is expected to fill the open square." A delightful time is promised, but it isn't likely to be a function of class unless front seats are reserved for ladies.

Perhaps there will be dissent to the idea of "commercializing the romance of California," as proposed by a university professor. This is a veritable land of romance, and while the various notable and striking incidents that enter into its history are not sacred, it would go against the grain of the multitude to see them employed to boost somebody's whisky, or cigarettes, or land schemes.

We are always getting at interesting facts. Professor Bolton tells how fog cheated us out of the discovery of San Francisco bay for 227 years. The hardy voyagers of that time sailed past Golden Gate, looked in, but couldn't see much on account of the enveloping mists; and so sailed on. The point is, who is going to make it up to us for being cheated, and how much are we out?

IOWA IMPORTANT.

The voters of Iowa are to decide upon woman suffrage in June. Up to the present the campaign in that state has been conducted with extreme quietness. The suffragists are treading so softly that casual observers seem to have some doubt as to the very existence of a campaign. This policy has advantages.

It saves Iowa suffragists from spending their powder on excited anti's. It is compatible with incognitoism yet most effective private canvassing. But the Iowa campaign is important not merely in Iowa. It is important to suffragists all over the country. Defeat in Iowa would be so discouraging everywhere that victory in Iowa is a national concern. For that reason there is no doubt whatever that outsiders throughout the country should get into the campaign, under the direction of the national and state organizations. The fact that Mrs. Catt is to devote herself to the campaign later on is not sufficient. It would be culpable to have suffrage defeated in Iowa because the suffragists inside and outside the state fail to give it the significance it deserves.—New Republic.

LET'S WATCH AND WAIT.

Two of the aeroplanes of the United States army have been destroyed in Mexico and four are said to have been badly injured, and only two air-scouts are left for the expedition. Will Congress ever wake up to the peril of its do-nothing policy?—Philadelphia Bulletin.

NOBODY HOME!

ARE WE PREPARED?

Militia Vs. Mitrailleuse

ONE of our greatest military authorities, however—Mr. Carnegie—believes that we do not need guns, ammunition, aeroplanes, or other equipment, not even rifles, so long as we have in the United States 16,000,000 men willing to die for their native land.

"I have always said that if at any time any country was foolish enough to attempt invasion, the best possible plan would be to make their landing as easy as possible, point out to them the best possible roads and allow them to go as far as they desired to go, inland. Then warn them to look out, and turn a million of our 16,000,000 militia upon them."

But what would the invading enemy be doing while we were arming a million men? Arming them with rifles alone would be useless against the shrapnel throwers and rapid-fire machine guns of an invading army. But how are we going to instantly get a million rifles even, not to say anything of the larger guns?

Even if we could raise a million men in a day, even if we could arm every man with the best rifle in the world and supply them with an abundance of ammunition for that rifle, what would happen if we tried to oppose the advance of 250,000 soldiers, or 100,000, or even 10,000 men well equipped with fan-sweeping mitrailleuses and shrapnel guns? Our men would be compelled to advance over a strip of land four miles wide before they could get within rifle range of the foe. During every step of that four-mile march our men would be swept by shrapnel.

If a million men in any army of Europe should be so

foolhardy as to attempt, without the aid of successive trenches and the protection of heavy artillery, to advance against 250,000 men equipped with mitrailleuses, the entire million men could be wiped out in an hour.

Armies of Europe are provided with one or more mitrailleuses for every hundred men. The mitrailleuse is a fan-sweeping, rapid-fire rifle. It swings in a fan movement from left to right and from right to left, firing from three to seven hundred bullets at terrific speed every minute.

The only protection against them is digging into trenches; the only machines to combat them are heavy artillery and shrapnel throwers. To send a million rifle armed citizen soldiers against such guns would result, just as General Wood and Henry L. Stimson have said it would result, in nothing less than murder.

A land force of 200,000 invading men would bring with them at least 2500 mitrailleuses for immediate use, besides those which they would keep in reserve. These guns can be carried on a soldier's back, pulled by trained dogs, attached to motorcycles or even bicycles. Such an invading army could easily bring 75,000 such guns if it should be deemed necessary.

But even 2500 of these guns could fire in three hours, allowing for changes of belts, cooling time and so forth, 900,000,000 shots.

Modern warfare is a contest of trained brains directing delicate, complicated, high-speed, death-dealing machines! No matter how strong the men, how brave the heart, how noble the soul, citizen soldiers unacquainted with like instruments and undirected by like brains are but food for Moloch!

SELF-PRESERVED EGGS.

A new idea for poultrymen is that of making a hen lay self-preserving eggs. By offering a grocer eggs which he could keep for some time on his shelves without having to put them into cold storage, the aspiring poultryman could almost command his own price—providing, of course, that the eggs were as edible as the best.

In the April Popular Science Monthly appears a description of experiments undertaken by Dr. Oscar Riddle, now of the Carnegie Institute.

By his method the hen was fed uterolipin, administered in capsules at the rate of less than a gram a day. Uterolipin is deposited in the egg, where it changes into formalin, a well-known preservative.

Eggs laid within twenty-four hours after the first dosing, as well as those laid five days after, were sufficiently affected to be preserved. Dr. Riddle tested the keeping power of the eggs in comparison with those from untreated hens under particularly severe circumstances. Eggs of both varieties laid in the month of July were allowed to stand in a temperature varying from seventy-eight degrees above zero to twenty-five below. By the middle of September the difference between the two kinds of eggs could be easily detected; by the middle of November all the eggs from untreated hens were spoiled while those from uterolipin-fed hens were still edible, although they had lost some of their bulk of water.
The drug does not injure the hens, and is obtainable at small cost.

THE RIGHT NOT TO LAUGH.

If one were to accuse you of poisoning your grandmother you would presumably smile in untroubled fashion and go about your affairs without feeling any burden of accusation. But if one accused you of lacking a sense of humor, you would first of all resent it indignantly; and furthermore, for an indefinite time to come you would be conscious of a desire to disprove the charge, scrutinizing anxiously every phrase that might conceal some subtle hidden twist, emitting now and then forced laughs on suspicion. Perhaps, you boast your emancipation in many fields where public opinion customarily rules. You wear a straw hat when you please; you object to the insignia of mourning; you flaunt your readiness to discuss any subject in mixed company; you do or do not serve butter at your dinner table, yet you are afraid you may not laugh in the right places. Many a one who proclaims his right to individuality of opinion fears to assert an equally inalienable right not to laugh. Deep in his heart he dreads the withering accusation that he lacks a sense of humor.—Harper's Magazine.

A DEAD POLITICAL SCHEME.

Senator Borah also refuses to permit the use of his name on a presidential primary ballot. In fact, no man of really presidential size has been willing to allow his name to go on a primary ballot in any State in the Union, and the presidential primary has become the most discredited political scheme of this or any other time.—Springfield Union.

MeehanThink Death Message
Hides a Mock
Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Franklin in the belief that his daughter had fallen into the hands of white slavers and discovering apparently that deliberate attempt had been made to conceal her whereabouts, Bernard Meehan, a business man of Fresno, appealed today to the San Francisco police. A telegram signed by his daughter Bernice and reading, "Lloyd killed on horseback, burial tomorrow," received by Mrs. Bernard Meehan, followed by a string of postal cards which it is thought were not in the daughter's handwriting, and the discovery that the young woman was not married at St. John's Church here, to Lloyd Harrison Burnhart on April 12, are features in the affair.

Bernice Meehan met Burnhart three years ago in Denver, where he claimed to be studying in the college of pharmacy and subsequently left for Harvard. Recently he wrote her from the Fairmont Hotel and she came to San Francisco to be married. No license was published, but on her return with her husband to Fresno on Friday she exposed, away from the public eye, the fact that Burnhart had bribed the clerk.

"They then left for Chicago," said Meehan this morning. "Every day a postal card, but I don't think it was in my daughter's handwriting. Then the telegram arrived telling about Burnhart being killed. I communicated with Chief of Police L. H. Stark of Denver, from which the message came, and he asserted there had been no such accident, and that the woman who had sent the message had left on a D. & R. G. train at 10:30 Tuesday night."

If this was Meehan's daughter she would arrive in Fresno tonight, but the police are satisfied that she has been the victim of a conspiracy and agree with Meehan that she may be under the influence of drugs and be en route East.

TERRAMORSE WINS
POINT IN COURT

Although his term in the Alameda county jail will expire on April 28 Frank Terramorse Jr., who is alleged to have been married to Mrs. J. B. Molera of Alameda, known to the judge as "Fay Caranza," the "Spanish Nightingale," he was partially vindicated in a reversal of his conviction by the District Court of Appeals this morning. Incidental to the decision came a word of censure from the Court directed against Assistant District Attorney William B. Smith, whose persistence in an effort to discredit the defendant and his witnesses, are given as the reason for the reversal. The defendant's counsel, A. S. Newburgh, did not escape without a reprimand, the Court asserting that he had seriously hampered the proceedings by unnecessary objections.

Terramorse was sentenced by Superior Judge J. J. Francisco to six months for the alleged larceny of a diamond scarf pin and other trinkets belonging to Mrs. Molera.

"Had the trial of this case proceeded with that degree of decorum and courtesy which should regulate the trial of cases of the two evidences of misconduct on the part of the assistant district attorney would not be sufficient to warrant a reversal, but the persistence on the part of the prosecuting officer in his attempt and intention to discredit the defendant and his witnesses in the eyes of the jury and to get before the jury the fact that he had been expelled from fraternal orders by reason of moral turpitude cannot be overlooked," said the judge.

The alleged element of "Fay Caranza" to New York was followed by the securing of a warrant for the arrest of the pair. Molera charged his wife with contributing to the delinquency of one of the children accompanying her and Mrs. Terramorse swore to a warrant against her husband for failing to provide for a minor child. Both were brought back. Mrs. Molera's case was dismissed and that against Terramorse is on the reserve calendar while he is paying for his child's support. On being arrested here he was convicted and being unable to obtain bonds pending appeal, started to serve his term. He will have completed it before the expiration of the thirty days when today's decision will become operative.

Members of Oakland

"Literary" and the
"Vocational"

Charging that "rowdyism" was "everywhere in the Oakland schools," Miss Blanche Morse startled the members of the Oakland Club several times yesterday afternoon in the course of a speech fervently advocating the "Gary system" of education.

"What 'Gary' has been to Milwaukee, it is the Gary system to this city," was the introduction to this speech. An explanation summarizing the "efficiency," "economy" and healthfulness of Gary's schools followed from the candidate supported at the last election for county superintendent of schools.

"I hear our Polytechnic high school is planning an addition. Would the Gary system permit anything so far from economy? In Gary there is one school, but that school is 100 per cent efficient. The children go there from 8 until 5 o'clock each day—and it is used every day in the year. Each child's day is divided into periods for regular or academic studies, special subjects and recreation. Proving the success of this plan in Gary they send children to school to make them well—here we take them out when they are ill. Either let children in Oakland go to school from 8 until 5 o'clock or pay high taxes without grumbling."

ATTACKS SYSTEM

Miss Morse then attacked the entire separation of "literary" and vocational schools on the grounds that it had made Oakland schools the "most undemocratic things we have," and she added to this a criticism of the use made of teachers in local educational institutions.

"You require a teacher to have at one minute the point of view of an artist; the next moment that of a scientist; and for what kind of being called upon to be all things to all men and to all women and some children." The speaker advised "special" use of teachers, according to their talents. Specially trained play supervisors are needed, according to Miss Morse, as the academic teachers do not know how to direct "play activities."

Rowdyism, she declared, was a general result. Walter A. Tenney, principal of the Vocational school at Market and Twelfth streets, described the intention and activities of such institutions—especially at the local school.

LACK OF UNDERSTANDING

"I feel that there is a lack of understanding as to what a vocational school is for, and for what kind of training or an industrial school. In reality it signifies a school where boys and girls are taught to follow a 'calling.' It is not a place for backward children. This misconception I believe is partly due to the bookishness that manual work is only done by those without brains. This is a very great mistake."

Though the necessity for equipment made vocational schools more expensive, Tenney stated that the co-educative system for the school to invest in its own shops than to have pupils working on part time schedules, for privately owned factories, as this last-named method deprived the school of authority in many directions. A school plan organized along a commercial plan, which it turns out salable products was urged.

Preceding and following the addresses a musical program was contributed by Miss Roxanna White, pianist, and Mrs. C. W. Farrell, the president of Richmond's Mendelssohn club, who sang several soprano solos with Mrs. Y. Ripley and Miss Anna Metz accompanying with violin and piano. Mrs. J. Schwartz presided.

Search State for Plays' Costumes

Oakland high school students have searched the state to collect scenes for the production of the Shakespearean tercentenary play, Coriolanus, at the auditorium opera house tomorrow evening.

Very many of the costumes had to be made for the occasion. It is not only on the stage that costumes of 300 years ago will be seen. Members of various leading organizations will be there in costumes of the Shakespearean era. These include Mrs. Ethel Moore, Mrs. George W. Percy, Mrs. Gordon Stain, Mrs. Herman Knower, Miss Dorothy Denning and Mrs. Harry Bruce.

There will be 100 boys and girls in the cast, all of them students at the Oakland high school. Roberta Wells and Lorene Watson will have the leading women's roles, while the male leads will be played by Horace Beverly, McKenna Johnstone and Alfred Solomon. Beverly will play Coriolanus.

Auto Thief Too Many
for Police Sleuths

The police are unable to cope with the situation created by the persistent theft of automobiles, according to Captain of Inspector W. J. Petersen, and it is "up to the owners" to place adequate locks on their machines. Petersen recently attempted to have a framed that would force owners and drivers of automobiles to place locks on their machines and to keep them locked when standing at the curbs. The city attorney was unable to draw up an ordinance that would satisfy Petersen.

Reports of the theft of ten machines were made to the police in the past few days. Christian P. Kell, 1450 Harrison street, reported the theft last night of his automobile from Franklin and Fourteenth street. It was recovered early this morning by Patrolmen Seyden and Orbell.

PIPE SETS HIM AFIRE

Explaining his pipe in his mouth, O. Thornbury, 373 Thirty-seventh street, appeared at the Emergency hospital today with a burn on his left shoulder. He awakened to find the bedclothes on fire, but was able to extinguish them without much damage.

From Garrett

Edward C. Garrett of 3243 Fairview avenue, Alameda, president of the Garrett-Cullinan Company, holder of patent manufacturing of 30 Freeman street, San Francisco, who recently wedded Miss May Dixie, was accused today by his former wife, Mrs. Lillian G. Hamlin of 324 Hyde street, San Francisco, with failing to keep an agreement to pay her $250 a month for the support of herself and four children. It was after twenty years of ideal married life that the present Mrs. Hamlin obtained a decree of divorce from Garrett, March 1, 1913.

A year later she wedded her former husband's business associate, Arthur Hamlin, and successor as manager of the Gorham Rubber Company of Seattle. Six months afterward Hamlin died and Mrs. Hamlin came to San Francisco. She claims that at the time of the divorce Garrett had all of his money invested in his business, which she avers was community property. In order not to embarrass him she agreed that she be given stock in the concern to be held in escrow and that he pay her $250 a month. There is now owing, she asserts, $1,500. Mrs. Hamlin has been paid since September, 1914. Meantime Mrs. Hamlin asserts that her oldest son has been forced to leave college because his father refused to further provide for him and she herself had spent all her money educating her children.

"I am so placed now that I will have to go out and earn my own living," Mrs. Hamlin said this morning. "I promised my son a college education. When I had no more funds I appealed to his father, who promised

Look back and picture it. Then write about it!

Contest

Kullman Salz may be a better athlete than his cousin, business partner and rival, Howard Salz, but Howard beat him by just one day in a race to the altar. Howard Salz and Miss Emma Wolfe were married in San Francisco yesterday.

Kullman Salz and Miss Mildred Petersen were married in Oakland today.

Howard and Kullman Salz are about the same age. They were in school together. They were rivals in athletics, in mathematics, in a score of other things that young fellows make contests of.

Salz was a better athlete than was Howard, however. Howard returned from an Oriental tour recently and told his cousin that he was soon to wed. Kullman decided, secretly, to wed first, but Howard learned of the plan and hastened to the altar yesterday with Miss Wolfe.

They were not to have been married for another week.

Both are members of wealthy families. They are interested in a big business in Vallejo. Howard Salz is secretary of the Argonaut Club in San Francisco. Their bride is well known in about-the-bay society. Mrs. Howard Salz being an Oakland girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Salz left today for New York and Washington and other eastern cities, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Kullman Salz will make a motoring tour of the southern part of the state.

Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his system with the right kind of Iron at the right time, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of Iron.

ALEXANDER AGAIN
SLIPS POLICE NET

Alexander, the "White Mahatma," who recently appeared at an Oakland theater, and who is known to the detectives as Claude Conlin, alias "Professor Astro," head of the Crystal Silence League, has again "slipped through the net" of the police. For several months
Alexander has been following the hands of the police, while appearing boldly at various theaters.

When Alexander appeared in Oakland his presence was widely advertised in the newspapers. He was known to the police to cause his arrest on the grand larceny charge. Why no request was made for his arrest in Oakland, the Oak-

SUFFERED FROM LAME BACK, WEAK KIDNEYS AND DIZZINESS

Dear Editor:

Last winter I suffered terribly from lame back, weak kidneys and dizziness, and uric acid in the blood caused rheumatic pains. I sent to Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., for his new remedy, "Anuric." As soon as the box of tablets came by mail I commenced taking them, and reaped untold good from their use.

(Signed)

MRS. KATE THOMPSON.

Notes.—This "Anuric" is adapted especially for kidney complaints and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back rheumatism, drowsiness, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine and urinary troubles. The physicians and specialists at Dr. Pierce's great Institution in Buffalo, N. Y., have thoroughly tested this prescription and have been with one accord successful in eradicating these troubles, and in most cases absolutely curing the diseased kidneys.

Patients having once used "Anuric" at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, have repeatedly sent back for more. Such a demand has been created that Dr. Pierce has decided to put "Anuric" in the drug stores of this country, in a ready-to-use form. If not obtainable, send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package, or 50 cents for full treatment.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood cleanser and alternative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It thus assists in making rich, red blood, which feeds the heart, nerves, brain and all organs of the body. You feel clean, strong and strenuous—instead of tired, weak and "all-in."—Advertisement.

Fair Lion Tamer Is Afraid of Mouse Plays With Bengal Tigers and Cats

MABEL STARK, LION AND TIGER TAMER, WITH AL. G. BARNES' WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS, WHO NEARLY STAMPEDED THE SHOW, SCREAMING IN PRIGIT AT A MOUSE.

Mabel Stark Invades Dens in Barnes' Monster Wild Animal Circus

A trainer of lions and tigers, but afraid of a mouse!

Such is the status of Miss Mabel Stark, one of the best known woman trainers of wild animals in the world. Miss Stark is with the Al. G. Barnes Big Four Ring Wild Animal Circus, which will open in Oakland, April 17.

Miss Stark is utterly fearless in training the most treacherous and ferocious full-grown African lions and Bengal tigers, and she appears in one act with two "big cats" without even a whip.

But where a mouse is concerned, Miss Stark ceases to be an intrepid animal trainer and is just a girl—with a girl's fear of the tiny, hairless creatures.

At Hanford, where the Barnes circus was showing some weeks ago, Miss Stark thrilled hundreds by her fearless handling of lions and her control over tigers. After her act, she was over and she had gone to the dressing tent, a chorus of screams was heard emanating from her dressing room. The crowd was frozen, visioning a loose beast. Dozens of circus employees rushed to the tent to find three women equestrians and Miss Stark perched high on the trunk, screaming for help.

"It's down there on the floor," they cried in a frightened chorus, while Miss Stark sought to climb even higher on the trunk.

"What's down there?" queried Barnes, who himself had rushed to the quarters.

"A mouse!" shrieked the frightened girls.

A tiny mouse had found its way into the tent from some of the hay spread about the tents.

Barnes grunted with disgust. "Fine exhibition for a lion trainer, almost causing a panic in the show over a mouse," he said, as he turned away.

"Well, I don't care," said Miss Stark. "Lions are just lions—but a mouse," he said, as he turned away.

More than 1000 educated wild and domestic animals are carried by the Barnes circus. Thirty full grown lions appear in a single act, while another feature is an ensemble of twenty-four Bengal tigers.

"Twelfth Night" to Be Offering of Students

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—In commemoration of Shakespeare's tercentenary and as a special feature of the annual convention of the California Teachers' Association next week, the "Twelfth Night" will be presented at the Polytechnic High School Auditorium.

President Archie Cloud of the Teachers' Association states there will be more than four thousand teachers from all sections of the state at the general sessions to be held at the Pavilion Bldg., starting next Monday. The three general sessions will be held on Monday morning and on Thursday morning and evening.

Dr. P. E. Huxford, United States Commissioner of Education at Washington, left the capital yesterday on his way to this city to deliver two lectures for the convention.

The officers of the California Teachers' Association are as follows:

W. J. Glasscock, San Francisco, president; W. F. Frick, Oakland; C. W. Mark, San Francisco; J. C. Hodenbach, Berkeley; Minnie Custer, Santa Rosa; F. C. Fisher, Oakland; D. R. Jones, San Rafael; G. E. Ferbus, Alameda, and C. M. Osenbaugh, San Jose, are the directors.

Winslow's Report Mentions No Raid

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Despatches received early today at the Navy Department from Admiral Winslow, commander of the Pacific fleet, made no mention of a reported bandit raid upon Americans near Guaymas, Mexico.

Winslow reported arrival of the cruiser Denver at La Paz, Mexico, en route to San Diego. He did not mention ordering the alleged attack upon the Americans and no orders have been issued from the Navy Department to that effect.

Admiral Winslow stated that the supply ship Glacier was bringing a number of Americans from Mazatlan.

Russian Vessel Is Sunk by Austrians

BARCELONA, April 13.—The Russian sailing vessel Imperator has been torpedoed by an Austrian submarine in the Mediterranean. Nine of the crew, some of whom are wounded, have been landed here by a Dutch steamship. The transporter, of 3123 tons, left Gulpport, Miss., on February 23 for Merselles.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Ladies! Try This! Darkens Beautifully and Nobody Can Tell; Brings Back Its Gloss and Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.
